The State that sent you forth, and has followed you with a mothers' love, proudly and joyfully, takes you again to hor bosom, proud and happy that she can call you her some-hers. We are glad to see so many of you here. Take our thanks, for you have saved the Republic. Statesmanship has done something; heroic generalship has done much; but the chief honor is yours, to shell and shot, and taken you have won have won for your country Union and you have won for your country Union and freedom, and for yourselves immortal praise and gratitude.

Alast that you are not all here! Some alone for in sleep afar in those fields whose names, made memorable by your heroism, ahine emblezoned on your banners. Some lie in homemade graves. But none sleep unremembered. Commemorative monuments shall rise on every battle-field; and the graves nearer home shall be decked with owers and watered by our tears.

Let us thank God that the war is over, and that our country remains undivided and is safe. Let us thank God that on every breeze and over every field from the Gulf to the Lakes, and in all the brightness of its glory, floats the banner of the Great Republic, every star in place.

I have just passed through the States so recently in robellion. No robel music talents, and great promise. sounds from camp or fort. Rebel cannon, indeed, frown grimly from many a rampart and may a casemate; but over their black and silent forms wave the Stars and Stripes of the Unbroken Union, and their thunders will never be heard again unless in battle with foreign focs.

For this we thank you. Well and nobly have you done your part. But how could you do less? You were citizens when you become addiers. The country which called became soldiers. The country which called every one of you had a distinct personal interest in the republic. It was this that made every man a hero. It was this that made you invincible in battle. It was this that gave victory to your arms. Now you resume the honored name and konorable duties of citizens.

Welcome to the name and the responsibilities. As you have conferred honor on your State by deeds of arms, now increase her obligations to you by the faithful dis-charge of civil duties. You have saved the Republic. Now raise it up on your strong arms to heights of presperity, honor and true glory hitherto undreamed of. Once more, soldiers, welcome! God bless you! and farewell.

Tues. and 17 officers. The roster of the 118th is as day forencon the party pushed down the bluffs to Old Haddam, sn old New England town in every respect, for the purpose of taking dinner. Arriving at the hotel a few moments before dinner, several of the young men proposed taking a bath. Young Stone, an expert swimmer, was not forward in the matter, for he had complained of not being well before setting out on the expedition. He, however, went down to the river with seven of his classmates, He told them not to be in haste, as they were warm and must cool off. In a few m ments they plunged in and struck for the opposite bank: The river at that point is from a quarter to a half mile wide, and is quite shallow on the Haddam side. The channel is deep, but not wide, and it hugs the shore opposite the town. Young Stone waded to the channel, while his companion swam before him and had reached the shore by the time he struck out into deep water. The boys were treated to a good wash at He had not made more than three or four the depot, and then fell into line, headed strokes before he threw up his arms and and caused his instant drowning. Mr. Witt speaks in the highest forms of the exceeding kindness and hospitality of the people, all of them, of Old Haddam. They showed every attention, and ceased exertion only when the body was found. The funeral services were held at the residence of Mr. a. a. accommencing at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. A large oncourse of people gathered at the manon, the light of which has been so sud denly and terribly darkened. Rev. W. H. RUNAWAYS,-A horse attached to a wagon containing three boys dashed up Superior street Saturday afternoon, and on reaching Ontario street, tried the walk, making general stampede of the foot passengers. No one was hurt, strange to say. The horse was soon stopped.

On the morning of the same day, Miss Robbins was driving up Prospect street, when the horse took fright at a building being moved through the street, and ran fu riously a few rods when one wheel struck a post and was broken. Whirling a few rods further, a second wheel struck another post, stopping the vehicle instantly. Miss R. was thrown out upon the pavement with heavily in the battle of Resacca, and was great violence. A serious wound was inflicted above her right ear. She was taken transferred to North Carolina, arriving callent care, medical and other. For several hours her recovery was considered colors of the 118th were the first planted on doubtful, but her system rallied, and in the evening she was removed to her home Case's Avenue.

FINANCIAL & COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY MYRRING, July 1, 1868. The movement of the bulle on Friday in forcing he payment to-day of contrasts to gold maturing ors Wadnesday, failed of the object in view that of largely advarcing the premium, which was thought to be inertiable from the scarcity of on b gold known to exist. The bears, however, hat to a large degree headed of the movement by providing themselves before hand with the means necessary to meet their engagements, and those who were not thise forestment, found free lenders at a comparatively favorable rate. The result was a decline instead of the looked for advance in premium, the price closing this afternoon at 140%. The abipment of specie to-day amounted to only $30,-600. The Government payments of interest will be at the rate of about two hundred and fitty thousand dollars a day. To-day being the first of the month considerable ctivity was experienced at the Banks in the sottermont of monthly balances, but no essential al-teration of the money states was effected, and we can note no change in the market. The demand for discounts is only moderate. Exchange continuse firm at par buying and 1/4 premium selling. In our general markets to-day business was light. The d-mand for Flour is confined to the wants of the local and interior trails, and movements are consequently only in small lots. Wheat openirregular this morning and ruled so during the greater portion of the day, but finally became rather more steady at a concession of ic. Corn was without sale and circul nominal. Data were very sulet and nehanged.

Provisions are stoody, and the demand for Ham-and Dried Boof continues active. Pork is rather quist, the demand being entirely from the trade, Produce was quiet There was less inquiry note for Butler to day, but prices suled steady.
